Summary of Comments and Responses (if applicable):

Comment: Received a comment from the Department of Ecology regarding concerns for water quality due to sediment or other pollutants.

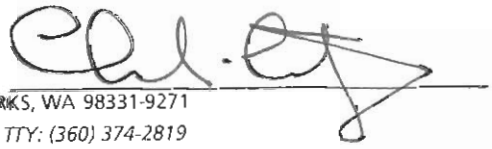

Response: All streams have 50 foot buffers on each side. These buffers should prevent any significant amounts of sediment from reaching flowing waters.

The logging method is hand and aerial methods only. Most of the time fuel will be in small, one or two gallon containers. If a leak does occur it would be limited to those quantities. During helicopter operations, the fuel truck will be located in old landing locations for refueling activities, which are located away from flowing streams. The fuel trucks normally carry spill response kits. In addition there are clauses in the contract that address spill response issues.
